What this sheet practises

- Woodwinds are tubes you blow into. Fingers cover the holes and keys.
- The flute is a long silver tube. You hold it out to the side.
- The clarinet is a dark, straight tube with a little bell at the end.
- The saxophone is a golden J with a bell that turns up.
- The recorder is a short wooden tube with holes for your fingers.

How to help

Look and listen together: name an instrument in the app, then find it in a song, a video or a concert and say which family it belongs to.
